

Conference

They Come!

SEMA Reception

This years SEMA reception was bigger then ever. There was an overflow crowd. SEMA served up a wonderful light dinner from different food stations. And the drinks were flowing. "This is a great way to start off the PWA Conference. You get to see people you haven't seen in a year and renew friendships," Bob Cook told us. Thank you SEMA.

Pool Party

After a "heavy" day of meetings, the PWA Pool Party gave us a great way to unwind. It also let our members continue conversations about doing business in 2009. PWA always serves up a great dinner and a few drinks giving us a nice relaxed atmosphere for all that attended. "Good food, good conversation, great music. Who could ask for anything more after the first day of meetings," Jeep Worthan told us. That says it all!

LED FOOT by Bob McJannett

LED FOOT, the band consisting of members of the performance industry, had its most successful concert to date. Once again, they provided the entertainment during PWA's Pool Party on Monday night at the Oasis. The evening was warm, the food was good and the music exceptional. For a group that only plays together twice a year with virtually no practice, they really have it together. Tuesday evening they moved upstairs to the Phantom Horse Grille where they played to enthusiastic crowds of PWA members. The regular band members are: Rich Barsamian, Grant Products, lead guitar and vocals, California; Dave Lenz, Lund Products, lead guitar and vocals, Minnesota; John Condon, Toppertown, lead guitar and vocals, Florida; John Lannotte, Bob Barker Sales, left handed guitar, North Carolina; Anne Graves, SECO, flute percussion and vocals, Alabama; John Mathis, Professional Products, harmonica, California; Dave Williams, Rampage Products, drums, California.

Food and great conversation at

Now that's the way to enjoy a pool party.

The " Silent Auction" was a big hit.

as well attended.

to the fullest.

Led Foot played well into the night.

John Lannotte enjoys playing for the Conference group.

John Towle joined this year's concert, and he wasn't bad.

Photos by Lou Lobsinger and Richard Bennett