

Conference ... a year makes!

... Bennett

the best I've attended since I've been going for over 20 years and most of the manufacturers I spoke with felt the same way. I don't know if it was because the business seems to be coming around or what but everyone was positive and looking for ways to work together to increase business together," Donnie exclaimed. "I'm really looking forward to the 2010 PWA Conference."

SEMA Reception

This is a great way to "kick off" the PWA Conference. The Sunday night reception starts off with good food and drinks, great conversation and renewed friendships. "I really look forward to the SEMA reception. Not only for the support that SEMA gives the PWA Conference but also seeing friends and people we do business with throughout the year," Anne Graves, President of PWA told us. Chris Kersting, President of SEMA welcomed us to the reception and thanked everyone for attending. He told us what changes we would see at this year's SEMA show and that he looked forward to seeing us there.

Pool Party

As always, we all look forward to the PWA "pool party." The Monday night get together at the Oasis starts off with a few drinks, a great buffet dinner and ends up with our own industry member band... Led Foot. The band consisted of people that work in the automotive performance industry. They only get a chance to play together a couple of times a year and they take full advantage of their time together. They entertained us into the night and then played at a Tuesday night "Mixer" sponsored by Painless Performance. This time to "unwind" is also a time to continue conversation about business. It's just a great way to end the first day of the Conference!

... drinks

Lunch was good! Every day!

... mini-meetings. The business was... and it worked!

Jeep Worthan (center) was getting a lot of congratulations for being the newest member of the SEMA Hall of Fame.

Chris Kersting of SEMA thanks us for attending the SEMA reception.

Here is your PWA Board of Directors ...minus two!

The smiling faces on John Mathis and Anne Graves was a testament to the enjoyment at the Pool Party.

As always, the First Timers' room was well attended.
